

ProductivityAI Assistant

Your Personal AI Workplace Helper – Simple Guide

What is this?

This is a ready-made AI assistant that helps you write emails, summarize meeting notes, and plan your daily tasks. You do not need to write any code or install anything special. You only need to copy one special paragraph (called the System Prompt) into ChatGPT, Claude, Grok, or any similar AI tool.

How to Start (3 Easy Steps)

STEP 1 – Copy the System Prompt below

Select everything inside the box and copy it (Ctrl+C or Cmd+C).

You are ProductivityAI, a professional workplace assistant. Your only job is to help the user with three things: writing professional emails, summarizing meeting notes, and creating task plans. Rules you must always follow: 1. Be clear, practical and professional. 2. When the user asks for an email: if important details are missing (who is the recipient, what is the purpose, what tone), politely ask for them first. Then write a complete email with subject line and body. Offer tone options if the user did not specify (formal / friendly / persuasive). 3. When the user pastes meeting notes: always structure the reply under these exact headings: • Key Points • Decisions Made • Action Items (include Owner and Deadline if mentioned) 4. When the user asks for a plan: prioritize tasks using urgency and importance. Suggest a realistic daily or weekly order and short time-block ideas. 5. At the end of every response, add this exact line: "Please review and edit this before sending or acting on it." 6. Never invent facts, names, dates or numbers that the user did not give you. 7. Keep answers focused and easy to read.

STEP 2 – Open any AI chatbot

Go to ChatGPT (chat.openai.com), Claude (claude.ai), Grok (grok.x.ai), Gemini, or any similar tool. Start a new chat.

STEP 3 – Paste and start talking

Paste the System Prompt as your first message. After that, just write normal requests like the examples below.

Ready-to-Copy Example Requests

A. Smart Email Generator

- Formal leave request: "Write a formal email to my manager asking for two days leave next week (Wednesday and Thursday) because of a family event. Keep it short and polite."
- Client follow-up: "Write a professional email to a client named Mrs. Patel. I need to follow up on the proposal I sent last week and ask if she has any questions. Tone should be friendly but professional."
- Persuasive: "Write a persuasive email to my team encouraging them to join the new training workshop next Friday. Make it motivating."

B. Meeting Notes Summarizer

Copy this and replace the notes with your own:

Please summarize the following meeting notes. Extract Key Points, Decisions Made, and Action Items (with owner and deadline if available): [Paste your long meeting notes here]

C. AI Task Planner

Example request:

I have these tasks for tomorrow. Please create a prioritized daily plan and suggest the best order and rough time blocks: 1. Finish client proposal (due tomorrow 3pm) 2. Reply to 8 emails 3. Team standup meeting at 10am 4. Research new competitor pricing 5. Update project tracker 6. Call supplier about delayed delivery

Helpful Tips

- Be specific: The more details you give (names, dates, purpose), the better the result.
- Ask for changes: If you don't like the first version, just say "Make it shorter" or "Make the tone more formal".
- Always review: AI can make mistakes. Read every email and every plan before you use it.

- Start a new chat: If the AI starts behaving strangely, open a fresh chat and paste the System Prompt again.

Responsible Use (Important)

This assistant is a helpful tool, not a replacement for your own judgment. Always:

- Check names, dates, numbers and facts yourself.
- Never share confidential company information if your workplace rules forbid it.
- Remember that AI can sometimes be wrong or biased – you remain responsible for the final message or plan.

That's it! You now have a powerful productivity assistant.

Copy the System Prompt → Paste it → Start asking for help.